Additional Genealogy Sites of Interest

Archives

www.archives.com

An alternative site to www.ancestry.com. It's a less expensive, but also less extensive, site for tracing your family tree.

National Archives

www.archives.gov/research/genealogy/index.html

Use the resources at the National Archives to explore your family's ancestry.

Television Shows with A Genealogy Theme

Finding Your Roots (on PBS)—you can watch full episodes at www.pbs.org

Who Do You Think You Are (on NBC)—you can watch full episodes at <http://www.nbc.com/who-do-you-think-you-are>

Who Do You Think You Are was originally on BBC, but is no longer aired. Watch previous episodes at <http://www.bbc.co.uk/whodoyouthinkyouare/welcome.shtml>

Translating Documents

Some of the genealogy sites have built-in translators to help you translate foreign documents you find. Here are other sites that might come in handy when you search through foreign records.

Google Translate

www.translate.google.com

Google's free online language translation service instantly translates text and web pages.

Bing Translator

www.microsofttranslator.com

Microsoft's free online language translation service translates text and web pages.

Genealogy Magazines

Family Chronicle Magazine

<http://www.familychronicle.com>

Family Tree Magazine

www.familytreemagazine.com

National Genealogical Society Quarterly (NGSQ)

www.ngsgenealogy.org

NGS Magazine four times per year

www.ngsgenealogy.org

Dozens of other print publications exist covering genealogy. For the most complete list, see Cyndi's List at <http://www.cyndislist.com/magazines/print>
